

Unless presented with solid reasoning, I would strongly resist the idea of limiting satellite radio's ability to provide local programming.

As I told my family, colleagues, and just about anyone who would listen, I can't ever imagine NOT having XM Radio in the future. Freedom to choose what I listen to without the ugly "shock jock" mentality is very important to me.

My vote: Don't limit the programming of satellite radio.